

WELCOME TO STORYVILLE! Create a story by filling in the blanks with the types of words suggested. Then read the silly story that you've made! You can do it again and again to make many silly stories.

One morning, Swoop, the bald eagle, woke up with a great idea. "I know what I'll do today," he said, "I'll go see my good friends, _____ (your name) and _____ in time for _____."
(your friend's name) (your favorite meal)

So Swoop got up, brushed his _____, washed his _____, and put on his favorite _____ because he wanted to look _____ for his friends.
(part of the head) (part of the body)
(type of clothing) (an adjective)

"Hmmm," thought Swoop, "I have to travel a long way to see my friends. After all, they live in _____, and I live all the way in _____. I guess I better _____ if I want to get there in time."
(your home state) (another state)
(an action word)

So Swoop began to _____ his wings hard as he could,
(another action word)

but he didn't budge. "Well, bust my _____," thought (part of a bird)

Swoop, "I guess I'm just not _____ enough to fly by (an adjective)

myself." Swoop tried to think of how he could get there. "It's too _____ for me to walk there," he thought, "and I (means difficult)

don't have a _____, so I guess I'll just have to take my (type of vehicle)

magic _____ if I want to get there in time." So he (something that hatches)

hopped in, and set off into the _____ sky.
(a color)

As Swoop flew, he looked down at the _____ ground, and felt _____.
(another color) (a feeling)

Just then, he heard a loud _____.
(type of noise)

"Oh no," thought Swoop, "It's Bubby, the _____ buzzard!" Everyone knew that (means bad)

Bubby, the Buzzard kept bald eagles from flying through

_____, by making them clean his _____ (name of a city) (part of a house)
and by taking all their toys.

“Stop there,” bellowed the buzzard. “Nobody passes through this city without giving me all your _____! Give them to me or I’ll send you to the _____ you little eagle.” Then Bubby the Buzzard _____ his _____ menacingly.
(a favorite thing--plural) (a bad place) (an action word) (a body part)

Swoop felt _____. “Why are you such a _____?” Swoop said. “I’m just trying to see my friend, _____, and you are in my way.” Bubby the Buzzard turned bright _____. “That’s just the problem,” cried Bubby, “everyone wants to _____ on by, but nobody wants to stay and play with me. I’m such a _____!”
(a feeling) (type of bad person) (your name) (a color) (an action word) (something silly)

“Well, if you’re _____,” said Swoop, “you can come meet my friends. There’s room for you to ride in my _____.” Bubby beamed at Swoop. “Really? I promise I’ll be _____, if you let me play _____ with your friends.” So Bubby hopped in and together they flew to their friends’ _____, where they all ate _____ and drank _____ and played _____ ever after.
(an adjective) (part of a vehicle) (another adjective) (your favorite game) (type of house) (your favorite food) (your favorite drink) (a feeling + ly)

THE END